One Hundred Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the Subscriber, on Tuesday the second of this inst. April, living in Kent county, Maryland, near Chester Town, the following described Negroes, viz. William, about 5 feet 5 or 6 inches high, a yellowish complexioned fellow, about thirty years of age, formerly the property of doctor William Matthews, he has been very much given to running away, and has been so often described in the public papers within this twelve months that any further description of him seems needless.—Jacob, about 6 feet high, and about 32 years of age, of a common Negroe complection, down look, his little finger of his left hand stands straight, occasioned by the cut of a sickle. Patt, the wife of said Jacob, about 27 years of age, a small light made woman of a yellowish complection, with thick lips for an American of her stature, she is a very good needle woman, and spins on either small or great wheel, and is very handy in any common house work.—Two children of the said Jacob's and Patt's, the one a male child about four years old, the other a female child about two years old. The above described Negroes took with them, besides their own wearing apparel, three coats, two of which were linsey cloth of a light grey color, both new; one of the two was a great deal too large for either of the said fellows; the other coat of brown cloth, half worn; three under jackets, one a velvet, another a drab, the other a light colored linsey cloth do, one new pair of Calf skin shoes, lined with linnen and bound with leather, one pair of boots remarkably large in the legs, several pairs of stockings and a silver watch, all stolen: their own wearing apparel as follows—William had on a light-horse regimental coat worked with silver twist, (which coat he had when he was brought home to me the first of February last, a round sailor jacket (blue,) thickset breeches, patched with corduroy in the stride, with other necessary clothing. Jacob, two linsey cloth coatees, lead colored, one new the other half worn, blue linsey cloth jacket, half worn, two pairs of linsey cloth trowsers, of a lead colour, the one new the other half worn, tolerable good shoes and stockings. Patt has every day cloathing, and her children wore home-made linen and linsey, her other cloathing not so well known; it is uncertain which course they may take, as William is such an experienced coaster.

Any person or persons apprehending said negroes or sounding them, so that their master may get them again, shall be entitled to the above reward, or in proportion for either of them, that is to say, 40 dollars for each of the fellows, and twenty dollars for the wench and children, and if brought home, all reasonable charges paid by

From the WESTERN TELEGRAPH.

[The Scot's-Irishman is really sorry, that he could not accommodate the language of this song to the delicate organ's of those for whose use it is designed; but indeed they must blame the perverse obstinacy of the Muse. He represented to her the fine musical sense of the people for whom the song was to be wrote, and begged of her, for once, to exchange her barbarous pronunciation for the softer tones of a more cultivated language, that her "canna's" and "dinnas" were become quite intolerable; but the testy little Scots Gentlewoman grew angry—called him "senseless coof"—"witless gowk," and gilly-gapas"—she said that she had sung her songs in her native dialect to far better folk than him or his fine-eared Jacobins, to whom, she supposed, he now intended to make his court; she called him "fause, ungratefu' tyke," that had it not been for her "barbarous pronunciation," and her "intolerable cannas and dinnas," his name would not be known six miles from his croin, but now it was spread all over the country, and bye and bye it would get into a book, and be, perhaps carried all over the continent.—But, readers! you all know how an enraged lady will go on, when her vanity is hurt. The Author attempted several times to interrupt her and at last when she paused for want of breath, he again remonstrated, but to no purpose: she still stormed, and flatly told him, if he took not the Song in the language she chose to give it, he might want it.—Unaccustomed as he is to female brawls, what could the poor poet do?—He took up his pen, and quietly submitted—And he is sure, that numbers of the good people for whom this Song is intended, who are married men, will applaud him for his prudence.—He has, however so far prevailed with the crusty Lady, as to give the Song a very sweet air, which he hopes, will, in some measure, atone for the harshness of the words.]

A NEW SONG

FOR THE JACOBINS, BY THE

SCOTS-IRISHMAN.

TUNE——"John Anderson my Jo."

O LIBERTY's a braw thing!
As France has found o' late,
To pu' down a' the gentry,
An' tramp upo' the great!
To level a' distinction,
An' turn things heels owre head!
Then you or I, or Rob or Tam
May be, might get the lead.

The State that's settled down in peace,
Is like a braw green tree,
That grows upo' a river's bank,
As often we may see;
The wind, that thro' its branches blaws,
It does na mind a fig,
Nor, tho' the rain upo' it fa's,
It winna budge a peg.

But twa-three Chiels wi' axes,
Sae they be stout an' clever,
Can soon this braw green tree cut down,
An' throw it in the river;
Syne, whan its on the water gat,
How merrily it gaes down!
An' ony chiel, wi' little skill,
May turn it round and round.

Then, lads, let's take our axes,
An' slash wi' might an' main,
There is nae ither way, I see,
We liberty can gain,
For, while the State stan's on it's roots,
We've naething but its shade.
An' well ye ken baith root an' branch
For our sole use were made.

Our bawling out again' the laws
Is but like wind an' rain,
Frae which the sturdy State-tree
Does aye mair vigor gain:
But, lads, let's tak our axes,
For it's ay getting higher,
An', gif we canna fned it short,
We'll cut it down for fire.

O Liberty's a braw thing!
As France has found o' late,
How, in a fummil, they owreset
The King, the Kirk, an' State!
An' there the mighty ruin lay,
Just like an auld dead carrion,
On which ilk hungry dog did prey,
An' ev'ry filthy raven!

An' here, my lads, I dinna doubt,
But we'd hae dainty picking,
An', well I ken, there be some fo'k,
Wha now their lips are licking.*
Syne, let us to't wi' heart an' han',
An' down wi' the auld bigging!
We'll mak' a new ane in its stead,
Wi' a braw five-faced rigging.§

There is but ae thing in the way,
An' that's th' executive;
This pillar, lade, we maun ding down
Tho' its baith stanch an' sleeve.
But, gif I choose to speak my mind,
I'd tell ye in a crack,
Whare we cou'd get a sturdy chiel,
Wha wad a Samson act.

O Liberty's a braw thing!
As France has found o' late,
Whare a' the folk, like horses wild,
Did frae their teathers break.
But, by and bye, the flatt'ring grooms,
Their bridles on did slip,
An' now upon their backs, like de'ils,
They ride wi' spur an whip.

He orders all couriers to be stopped at the gates, opens the letters, and allows those only to pass which he thinks proper.

PARMA, Dec. 19.

The king of Sardinia arrived at Placenza at three in the morning of the 17th, with a train of twenty carriages and three chariots, escorted by a hundred and twenty French hussars, and eighty Piedmontese dragoons, who wore the French cockade. He set forwards yesterday for Borgo San Domino, and he passed through this city about two this afternoon. Our Duke has paid him the highest honors.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 9.

Several large detachments of cavalry and infantry continue to traverse night and day such of our departments as are still infested with rebels. These are particularly the departments of Ourthe, of the Lower Meuse and of Dyle. The troops are obliged to watch all night, notwithstanding the severity of the weather. They have lately destroyed a band of the rebels, who defended themselves with much fury: and in other partial actions have made a number of prisoners.

The greater part of the army of Mentz, encamped on the left Bank of the Rhine, had received orders to repair to Belgium, there to remain until the end of the present troubles. These orders, however, have been countermanded, and these troops are now on their march to Italy through Switzerland.—A great number of deserters continue to arrive at Coblentz from the fortress of Ehrenbreistein. According to their reports, the garrison has plenty of flour, but is in want of every other article. Every three days an half pound only of salt meat is given to each man. They feel most severely the want of wood at this inclement season.

PARIS, Jan. 25.

It is said that Spain is making great preparations for war, and that she is meditating an expedition to retake the island of Minorca, of which the English made themselves masters at the expence only of a few shot. The Prince of Wales packet, which sailed from London the 15th Nivose, carried out an order to Lord St. Vincent, off Cadiz, to detach two ships of the line to join general Stewart. Dispatches were also sent to Gibraltar. It is said in London that these dispatches probably relate to an expedition against Majorca. The facility with which they took Minorca makes them conceive the hope of easily taking the other.

We are still ignorant of the fate of the agents of the Republic who were at Naples before the last hostilities; but we at length know what were the orders which a court as blind in its fury as it was extravagant in its enterprises gave concerning them, immediately after the declaration of war.

They were exposed to the insults of a fanatic people; they were loaded with opprobrium; they were forced to hear the menaces of the most worthless, and what was still more affecting, the imprecations which these contemptible men threw out against the Republic.

Such was their fate during the 24 hours which was granted them to embark. They did embark—Their destination was for Genoa, but they have not yet arrived at Genoa, nor at any other port in Italy. If they had been delivered up to the ship of the enemy, we should have heard of the vessel which carried them being taken. What is become of them then? Have we a new injury to avenge—a new crime to punish? Time, and that time not distant, will disclose the truth.

7 Pluviose, Jan. 26.

The garrison of Mantua has received a reinforcement of 3000 Piedmontese, and that of Brescia, has also received an addition of 2000 troops from the same country.

It is said that the commandant of Ehrenbreitstein has called for succours both from the emperor and the king of Prussia, and that both the one and the other have said, that they cannot assist him. The garrison makes daily signals, which are believed to be signals of extreme distress.

There was a new piece came out at the Theatre in the city, entitled Les Irlandais Unis. It was crowned with applause. There were some well written scenes and full of effect.

The minister of the marine, in a speech which he made to the officers and people of the dock yards on the 21st, said, that though the French navy had not shared in the glories of the French armies, it was about to do so. Its turn is coming. The creative regards of the directory are turned towards the ocean. Vengeance is preparing herself against the cunning English. Naples promises us a new arsenal. In a few days Sicilly will become the granary of Malta. In a few days the Mediterranean will be cleared of the auxiliaries of the perfidious Ferdinand. The minister concluded with a declaration, that he would speedily give to the French navy the means of revenge.

Gen. Berthier, with Buonaparte's youngest brother, is arrived in Corsica. He comes to concert measures with the directory.—Buonaparte still remains master of all Egypt.

The 70 millions levied by the king of Sardinia, on Ecclesiastical property in Piedmont have been sequestrated by order of the French commandant at Turin.

The French government having complained that the Batavians continued to supply the English with provisions, the directory of that Republic has proposed to prohibit the exportation of salted and smoaked provisions.

Letters from Brussels state, that armed bands of insurgents still make their appearance, but the Republican troops are in pursuit of them. A number of persons suspected of being concerned in the late troubles have been arrested.

LEGHORN, Dec. 17.

On the 28th November in the afternoon, after Leghorn had surrendered, Admiral Lord Nelson went on shore, and was received with the loudest marks of applause by the people. The number of Neapolitan troops then amounted to 4000 men, and 7000 more were expected. In the harbour of Leghorn there was a Genoese merchant fleet, consisting of 70 sail, under convoy of a xebec, and which, according to letters of the 3d instant, it appears the British Admiral treated as prizes. The Genoese Consul has protested against this act; and the Tuscan Government has promised redress.

An armament consisting of 4000 men has sailed from this place, but the destination of it is unknown.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 3.

An official communication was this day made by the Divan to the foreign Ministers resident at Constantinople, that the English Commodore Hood, who had for some time blocked up the harbour of Alexandria, had sent a number of gun-boats, furnished by the Ottomans, against a strong fort erected by the French near Aboukir, upon which they had mounted a vast number of cannon for the protection of the shipping and the port, when the French having been compelled to evacuate their position, the Commodore put a sufficient garrison into the fort; shortly after which the Governor of Rhodes sent to him several thousand troops, which obliged the French to retire in various other directions, when the Turks took a position that effectually prevented Buonaparte from communicating with either Alexandria or Rosetta. Buonaparte had been obliged to fall back towards Alexandria, in want of provisions and ammunition, and harassed by constant attacks from the Arabs.

CORK, January 16.

The corporation of this city has at length stepped forward in opposition to the city of Dublin, and has avowed its wishes for an Union of the two countries in the most decided language. The address to his majesty is conceived in the following language:

To the King's most excellent Majesty.

"May it please your majesty,

"We, your majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the mayor, sheriffs, common council, and commonalty of the city of Cork, in the court D'Oyer Hundred assembled, beg leave most humbly to approach your majesty with sentiments of the most affectionate attachment to your royal person and family, and the most confident reliance on the wisdom and firmness of your majesty's government.

"Whilst we contemplate with the deepest concern the unprovoked rebellion which has manifested itself in different quarters of this kingdom, and the treachery which invited a foreign enemy to its shore, we cannot repress the warmth of our gratitude for the parental anxiety manifested by your majesty, to protect us, and the prompt and affectionate zeal with which our sister kingdom poured forth the flower of her nobility, and the most chosen of her sons, to restore quiet to the land, and to repel our common and inveterate foe.

"We listen with heartfelt gratification to any measure tending more closely and indissolubly to connect two countries which seem relatively situated for their mutual support, and which none but the enemies of each could ever wish to divide.

"Convinced that the most beneficial effects must result to the empire at large from such a connection between this kingdom and Great Britain as will terminate all speculations on their separate interests, and afford additional strength and security to each by the cordial and energetic co-operation of both—we beg leave most humbly to address your majesty as our common parent, and to declare that we hear with the utmost satisfaction, that an union between the two kingdoms is at present within the contemplation of your majesty's ministers—and as your majesty's disposition towards your kingdom of Ireland has ever been gracious, munificent, and just, we feel confident that on the present occasion her liberties and her interests will be carefully considered, and anxiously preserved.

"Done under the common seal of the city of Cork, at the Guildhall thereof, the 15th day of Jan. 1799.

"Philip Bennet, Mayor.
"Abraham Lane, } Sheriffs.
"Isaac Jones, }
"Thomas Pope, C. S.

An address, couched in similar language, has been addressed to the Marquis Cornwallis, who returned in answer—

"That he should have great satisfaction in transmitting to his majesty the loyal and affectionate address of the City of Cork; which at a juncture so critical, and upon a subject so desirable, as the further consolidation of the mutual and permanent interests of Great Britain and Ireland exhibits an unanimous desire to further a measure which may terminate all future speculation upon their seperate interests.

Waterford, Limerick, and other Commercial towns are expected to follow the example of the City of Cork.

BOSTON, April 13.

Mr. Russell.

WE present you the following extract of a letter from Capt. James Freeman, late master of the brig Diana, armed with 6 4 pounders, and 14 men in all. We think it a handsome specimen of American bravery, and that it does great honor on Capt. F.

—— Yours, L. & C.

"Malaga, Jan. 26, 1799.

"GENTLEMEN,

"I am sorry to inform you of our misfortune: However, I have done all that any man could do to save your property.

"The 22d day after I left Boston, I fell in with the ship Industry, Capt. Goodwin, and kept company with her until the 25th of Jan. then parted off Ceuta. The next morning early, I saw two privateers coming out from Malaga, who passed by us—then tacked ship and followed us. As soon as they got within reach, I hoisted my colours and gave them a shot from my weather quarter: They immediately hoisted French colours, and both gave me a shot, and got direct a-stern. I then cut my stern ports down to the deck, and got my two longest guns out a-stern. In the mean time they had fired the second shot, and had got quite near me. I then commenced firing my stern chases, and the second shot I cut away the jib and half the foremast of the largest privateer, which caused them to drop a little farther astern and we all continued firing from 9 o'clock till 12 and their guns being so much larger than mine, they kept cutting away my rigging, when I could scarce reach them. By this time I was becalmed, and saw another privateer coming a-head, and fired a 12 pound shot at me, and those a-stern, taking advantage of the calm with their oars kept in such direction, that I could not fire a gun—neither did they until they came within musket shot, when they gave me a charge of grape and musket shot, which cut away my main-topsail yard, jib and fore-topmast stays, both top gallant sheets and halyards, so that they are all hanging overboard. I fired my muskets once, and finding resistance useless, hauled down my colours; being then about 4 miles from land, and 8 from Malaga. I fired my stern guns about 40 times, and two windward ones about 10, and it is the most surprising thing, that they killed none of my men, tho' we received above 300 shot into our vessel.

"The first boat that boarded me had one brass 9 pounder, and four 3's, and 40 men, of which I killed two and wounded six—the second was a small one of only one gun and 4 swivels—the third was a privateer of nine guns, one 12 and eight 8 pounders, and 60 men.

"I dare say you have heard of the capture of your schooner, Capt. Griste, long before this. As I cannot justify Capt. G. for giving up your property to such a boat, with a pretence that his men would not fight therefore I shall say no more about him.

"I am your obedient servant,
"JAMES FREEMAN."

☞ This Griste commanded a schooner armed with two 12, and four 3-pounders, 2 large swivels, small arms, pistols, cutlasses, boarding nettings, and every implement that was necessary to defend his vessel, with 13 hands, and was captured by a boat that said mounted 2 guns, and which he himself took for a fishing boat, as appears by his protest.

Late Foreign Articles

NEW-YORK, APRIL 19.

By the brig A, B, C, arrived yesterday in 40 days from Guernsey, (Eng.) we have received a file of London papers to the 21st of February, twelve days later than those by the packet and Fair American.—Details follow. In our next we shall lay before our readers the debates of the Irish parliament on the proposed union between that kingdom and England.

FRANCE,

PARIS, January 26.

Letters from Constantinople of the 15th December, received at Berlin by way of Belgrade, state, that the Pacha of Syria had come to a close action with Buonaparte, which had been bloody but not decisive.—The French found themselves wholly hemmed in. The Porte expected a more decisive success when the troops from Syria had reached their destination.

An article from Ratisbon, of the 15th January, speaks of the situation of the empire as more critical than ever. The dissolution of the ancient system was never more imminent. The most powerful of its members, Austria excepted, the king of Prussia has separated itself from it by a diplomatic act.

In one of the last notes of the Prussian legation at Rastadt, the ministers speak of possessions of the house of Brandenbourg in Westphalia, as independent of the empire. It is still believed, however, that peace will be concluded between the empire and France; but this is not mentioned with more certainty than hitherto.

The Russian troops are in full march to Moravia.

By letters from Florence of the 9th of Jan. it is stated, that the French and Neapolitan armies were still in presence of one another, under the walls of Capua, on the 7th of that mouth, An engagement was expected, and the issue was not considered as doubtful.

The French were regarded as masters of Naples. According to all reports that city was in the greatest agitation. The English had spiked all the cannon which they could not carry on board their ships. Lord Nelson had embarked in his own ship, the king and all his family and suite, of whom Acton formed a part.

Letters from Leghorn, of January 11th state, that by advices from Palermo, received there in four days from the latter place, the king and queen of Naples and all their suite had reached Palermo on the 25th December, after a very dreadful storm. The Vanguard had only her lower masts standing upon reaching the harbor. One of the king's children of six or seven years of age, is said to have died on the passage. Prince Piguatelli remains at Naples, to hold the reins abandoned by the government.

The famous passage of the fall of the Biche which the grand duke of Tuscany had caused to be fortified at a great expence, has been by his order given up to the French troops.

Napper Tandy and Blackwell are still in custody at Hamburgh.

An aid de camp from general Mack had arrived at Vienna, disguised as a courier.—He was the bearer of dispatches which he delivered to the emperor in person.

General Koehler, arrived at Berlin, on the 14th ult.

LONDON, February 15.

Yesterday were received some Dutch papers (The Rotterdam Courant) to the 8th inst. They unfortunately confirm the report already spread, of the continued successes of the French in the kingdom of Naples, and the surrender of the fortress of Ehrenbreistheim.

They contain intelligence from Germany, and particularly from Rastadt, later by several days than that which the last Paris journals brought us.

This intelligence is not unimportant—the two notes presented by the French plenipotentiaries to those of the empire, and to the minister of the emperor on the subject of the march of the Russian troops, have rendered the object of the negociations more serious and direct. The application made to the emperor by the empire on the subject of these two notes, has produced on the part of that prince, an answer, which, however evasive and dilatory, permits us still to cherish hopes on the future conduct of the court of Vienna. These are strengthened by the entry of the Russian troops into Austria; and uniting this circumstance with the alternative to which the declaration of the French ministers reduces the emperor on this point, it appears not improbable that the war between the emperor and France will be renewed.

COUNCIL OF FIVE HUNDRED.

Sitting of the 19th Pluvoise (February 7.)

The following message, addressed to the council by the executive directory, was read by one of the secretaries:

"The army of Rome, now the army of Naples, was attacked the 2d Pluvoise, by an innumerable multitude, composed of the remains of the Neapolitan army, the Lazzaroni and peasants, all well armed, well conducted, and enflamed by the torch of the most delirious fanaticism.

The soldiers of liberty, surrounded on all sides, routed the assailants in every point; and after three days, signalized by prodigies of valour, which the preceding victories of the republicans alone render credible, all the obstacles were surmounted, and the army established itself in Naples. The energy of the Neapolitan patriots, so long restrained, was reanimated with vigor: their voice was heard, and united with the clemency of the conqueror, it converted into a holy enthusiasm for liberty, the fanaticism with which the hearts of a deluded multitude had been inflamed. The Neapolitan republic was proclaimed, and a provisional government organized."

The reading of this message was followed by the warmest acclamations, and the hall resounded with shouts of "Long live the Republic!" Several patriotic airs were played by the council's band of music, and similar shouts were again reiterated.

Lesage Senault.—"The unexampled success of our armies are every day more and more entitled to the gratitude of the nation. I move that the council do declare that the army of Rome, at present the army of Naples, continue to deserve well of its country."

The motion was agreed to, and the message ordered to be printed.

Duriquet.—"I do not address you for the purpose of adding to the admiration which has been excited in you by the reading of the directory's message. I will not dishonour this assembly, by representing to you the shame of a king who had not the courage to die, nor that of his swaggering general, who after so many boasts has been indebted for his safety to the generosity of the victorious general. I shall content myself with stating to you, that notwithstanding the difference of numbers, that city, which contains a population of 400,000 souls, was taken by 8000 Frenchmen.

"At length the rights of man are proclaimed upon the finest soil which the sun enlightens, and we behold one tyrant, less, and one republic more.

"And thou infamous and perfidious government of England, the republican thunderbolt shall soon reach thee, and thou shalt be prostrated a victim to the weight of thy crimes! Thou shalt also learn, that the French are men of all elements, as they are of all climates.

"I demand that you refer to the commission of republican institutions the consideration of the question, "Whether the creation of a republican festival be not necessary to celebrate the establishment of each new republic?,

This demand was not followed up by any resolution, and Duriquet's speech was ordered to be printed.

FROM THE FRENCH PAPERS.

Bulletin of Rastadt, 13th Pluviose. (Feb. 1)

Yesterday half an hour after the delivery of the note to the deputation of the empire, another was given in particulrr to the Count Lehrbach, minister of the king of Hungary and Bohemia, and Archduke of Austria, in which the French ministers declare, that if within 15 days from the date of yesterday, the emperor does not make the Russian troops evacuate Austria, and his other states which form a part of the Germanic empire, hostilities shall re-commence between him and France.

After the receipt of this note, Count Lehrbach had yesterday a secret conference of two hours with Count Metternich. He was afterwards engaged in business, for the same space of time with his private secretary, and a courier was dispatched to Vienna during the night.

The deputation met this day on the subject of the last French note, and determined it should be sent to the diet of Ratisbon, and communicated to the respective envoys, that they may acquaint their constituents, and that the latter may be enabled to give instructions on it to their ministers at the diet.

In the sitting of yesterday the minister of Mentz expressed himself in strong language against the fall of Ehrenbreitstein. He observed, as it had been previously remarked by the envoy of Cologne, that that middle state between war and peace, was worse for the people than open war, and that the elector, his master, with a view of fulfilling his duty in the capacity of a chancellor of the empire, had given directions to his minister at the diet of Ratisbon, to make the most pressing remonstrances to the emperor and the empire, to procure a termination to such a state of uncertainty.

The minds of the envoys of all ranks in the congress, differ much with respect to the conduct to be pursued in this critical conjuncture.

We may in the course of a few days be able to glance through the cloud which still obscures the political horizon, and discover the signs of war, or of the continuance of negociations. In the meantime a great number of deputies have, as it were, put themselves under the protection of the French.

SHOCKING CONFIRMATION.

By the arrival of the Favorite, Backhouse, 22 days from Jamaica, we have a confirmation of the horrid, unparralleled conduct of the French towards captain Kemp and his crew. Capt. B. received the account from captain Decatur, which was brought to the Havannah by a Spaniard, who arrived there from a port 25 leagues to windward of the Havannah, where the French privateers generally rendezvous.

Capt. B. further informs, that there are several very strong privateers in the Gulph Stream, among them is a cutter from France, of sixteen 12 pounders.

A gentleman arrived at Kingston, (Jam.) the 20th ult. in eight days from the Havannah, informs, that all the Spanish ships of war on that station are quietly at anchor in port, and the British squadron blockading it; the Spanish men of war are all dismasted, some frigates excepted.

From a Jamaica paper of March 27, received by the Favorite.

Extract of a letter from Lucea, dated 20th March, 1799.

"This morning arrived here the French brig Les Amis, laden with Mahogany and other wood, prize to the United States' sloop of war Montezuma, Alexander Murray, esq. commander, captured on the 6th inst off St. Croix, and sent down here, under the command of Mr. Carroll, one of the officers of said ship.

"The Montezuma may be expected at this Island in the course of a week, and will take under her convoy, all American vessels bound home.

The brig A. B. C. capt. French, from Guernsey, sailed on the 7th March.

We have conversed with a gentleman on board, who informs us that a convoy with the American and Newfondland trade, was appointed to sail from Portsmouth on the 10th of March.

The latest London accounts by this arrival, staete, that a French army was actually marching through Spain for Lisbon, the capital of Portugal. That the Convention at Rastadt had broken up, and it was daily expected, from the military preparations, that a renewal of hostilities would take place. That the king of Prussia had actually taken up arms against the French. That the proposed Union between England and Ireland had fallen to the ground. That Napper Tandy was still held by the German government, but had been released from prison on bail, and was only confined to his room. That several packets had passed to and from Hamburg to London, with dispatches on the subject of the legality of Tandy's confinement—and that considerable disturbances had arisen at Hamburg, in consequence of a misunderstanding between the British and French ministers.

BALTIMORE, April 19.

After diligent enquiry, we can obtain no other papers brought by the George, from Cowes, than those of the 1st and 2d March. The rest, and there were none but the captain's, were forwarded to Philadelphia.

It appears by the Staunton paper of the 10th instant, that on the 28th March last, the resolutions passed by the assembly of Virginia, in their late session, together with the address of the majority of the house, were presented to a full court of Greenbriar county, for distribution. The court without any deliberation, tore them to pieces, and trampled them under foot.

ALL persons indebted to the estate of John O'Conor of Warwick township, Bucks county, lately deceased, are requested to pay the same to the subscriber, and those who may have any demands against said estate, are desired to bring in their accounts legally proved for payment to

JACOB PERKINS,

HAVING invented an effectual check for detecting counterfeit Bank Paper, which has received the sanction of one Bank, and the approbation of the undersigned eminent artists, and having obtained a patent, securing to him, and to his assigns, the exclusive right of the invention, hereby offers to his fellow citizens the privilege of using it upon terms, to be agreed on between him and any person disposed to avail themselves of a guard against counterfeits.

THE undersigned having examined Jacob Perkin's new invented method to detect counterfeit Bank paper, do approve of the plan, it being impossible to engrave or sink two plates perfectly alike, without the original die or hub, the counterfeiter would find it impossible to make an impression which would perfectly gage with the check from the original die.

The Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA,

MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 22.

The 44 gun frigate, building by Government at Corlear's Hook (New-York) under the direction of capt. Talbot, is progressing with rapidity.

Col. William Duer, so well known by his extensive speculations, during the Scrip mania, died lately in prison, at New-York.

POMPOSITY.

The state of Georgia, having occasion for a new state seal, have advertised a reward of 30 dollars for a device after the given description. Their advertisement is thus prefaced in the newspaper: "Premium for genius: Artists of all Nations attend!" 'Tis a queer world, my masters.

The great Republic, having brought forth another addition to her numerous progeny, still continues great as ever. In this particular, she is prolific as the Crocodile. But in the moral as in the natural world, the source will become exhausted in the multiplicity of its offspring; and thus the common alma mater of all the horrible revolutions, and all the pestiferous villians, which the age has produced, must descend the irremeable abyss in the very exercise of her pernicious fœtation. She casts her bread upon the waters, never to gather it again.

Yesterday morning early, (the twenty-first day of April, inst.) there was a flight of Snow! The irritable valetudinarian, fatigued beyond the narrow limits of his fortitude, at beholding the boisterous breath of November, blighting the young seyons of Spring, is ready to exclaim with the poet—

Jam satis terris nivis atque diræ
Grandinis misit Pater.

The natural world seems actually to be holding pace in retrogression, with the moral. The present state of the season is so backward, as to threaten to throw the customary course of farming more than a month in arrear. The Democrats charge these evils upon "our rebellious disposition towards the French republic."

The hair merchants first introduced ladies wigs, in order to dispose of their over laden market, from the heads of the dead soldiery, during the war. Read this fair countrywomen, and shudder!

A gentleman arrived in town yesterday afternoon, who left the camp at Reading, on Saturday at two o'clock. He informs that the route of the troops from Allentown was to Greenmeyer's, from thence to Karacker's town, and from that to Reading, where the troops arrived at one o'clock on Saturday. Writs had been issued for apprehending 16 persons in Greenmeyer township, but when the troops arrived there, 14 of them surrendered themselves; a detachment of horse was sent after the other two, but they were not to be found.—A report was in circulation that a large meeting of armed insurgents was to be held at a blacksmith's shop about 14 miles beyond Karacher's, on Monday last, but on examination it proved unfounded. From our information we may expect the cavalry of this city to arrive in town tomorrow or next day.

The captain and crew of the ship Alert, of and from Jamaica, lately wrecked on the Joe Flogger, arrived in town on Saturday. No hopes are entertained of recovering any part of her cargo.

The trial of the prisoners charged with treasonable practices, we are informed, will come on in the course of this week, before the district court of the United States, now sitting in this city.

All accounts from Europe agree in representing the extraordinary severity of the last winter. Numerous disasters have in consequence occurred in the northern seas. A letter received in this city, mentions, that "several vessels had been taken up, without having a living soul on board."

The inclemency of the season (says a London paper of the 9th Feb.) is not confined to this country, but is proportionably severe through Germany, Holland, France, and all northeast countries of Europe.

On the 5th Nivose, in the morning, at Berlin, Reaumur's Thermometer was at 17 degrees and a half. On the same day at Hamburgh, it was at 18. On the 6th Nivose at Manheim, it was 19 2-3, and at Augsburgh, 20. It never was before known to be at that degree since observations have been made.

Since the frost, the markets not only in the metropolis, but in every part of the kingdom, have been abundantly supplied with butcher's meat, the farmers and graziers being induced to send more than usual quantities of cattle for sale, on account of the scarcity of fodder.

In severe winters in Germany, it is by no means uncommon for the peasants to be driven to the necessity of unthatching their houses for the purpose of maintaining their cattle, the roads being so encumbered with snow, as to render it impossible to obtain fodder from the adjacent towns.

A letter from Ramsgate of 19th January, mentions the arrival there of the brig Grace, Edwards, from hence, bound to Hamburg, and that the ship Voltaire, Bowen, from hence to Hamburg, was ashore at the mouth of the Elbe.

Married, at New-York, on Thursday the 18th inst. by the Rev. Dr. Ireland, SAMUEL MURGATROYD, Esq. of this city, to Miss GOVERNEUR, daughter of Isaac Governeur Esquire.

Port of Philadelphia,

Sloop Nabby, Cox, of this port, has arrived at New-York, from Burmuda.

Brig Adventure, of and from hence, has put into Burmuda in distress.

Three Pilot boats have come up with part of the cargo from the wreck of the Alert.

United States brig Norfolk, capt. Benbrige: ship America, Sims, and several other vessels names unknown went to sea on Thursday last; ship Fame, Jones, for Havanna, went to sea on Wednesday last.

His Britannic Majesty's sloop of war Camilla, capt. Larkins, and ship Townsend Sherer, lay at New Castle yesterday.

As we had heavy gales for three days since, they are gone off to the Southward: they were seen on Monday evening on the South side.

March 16.

Yesterday arrived his Majesty's ship Hind capt. Larcom, from Hampton Roads in 60 hours. She has brought a few more troops for the 47th regiment.

One Hundred Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the ſubſcriber this day, at noon, two mulatto houſe Servants viz Ned, but commonly called Edward among his companions, well known as the ſubſcriber's coachman and waiting man for ſeveral years in this city and in New-York—he is a tall ſtrait made mulatto with a large buſhy head of hair, about 32 years of age, has a low forehead, with ſmall eyes, a ſullen dark look and is much inclined to be abrupt and inſolent, one of his legs ſomething ſmaller than the other from a fracture in his youth; he generally wears a brown cloth coatee with red cuffs and cape and red edging, or fuſtian with red cuffs and cape; had on when he went away an old foreſt cloth ſurtout, mix'd brown and yellow, and has a box coat of light colored drab, with red and white livery lace, but as I do not know what other clothes he had on, may change his dreſs.

Nelly, calling herſelf Wife to the before named Ned, ſhe is much above the middle ſtature, ſtrait made with falling ſhoulders, has a remarkable ferocious countenance and is very paſſionate, quarrelſome, and noiſy, ſhe is rather a fair mulatto—has loſt one or two of her front teeth, which ſhe ſupplies with wax, and has a large ſcar between her ſhoulders occaſioned by a bliſter; ſhe is about forty five years of age, has a very maſculine air in her walk, ſhe carried away with her ſeveral gowns of different colored cotton; the above reward will be given for apprehending and ſecuring them in any Jail in the United States and giving notice to the ſubſcriber; or fifty dollars for ſecuring either of them.——All perſons are cautioned againſt harboring, entertaining, or concealing the above ſervants or either of them; and all maſters of veſſels and others are warned againſt carrying them from the United States,
